The Fog is an excellent horror novel, expertly with James Herberts matter of fact style which only adds to the horror within its pages. The authors writing style does not leave anything for the readers imagination, instead chooses to describe horrid scenes in full detail. The Fog is the story about a man made contagion that drives people mad.

Herbert's The Fog is as dark and relentless as his antagonist. Mostly made up of gory vignettes, Herbert skillfully ties everything together to create a harrowing and terrifying story. As with Herbert's other work, some of the horror edges into the realms of excess and, for some, he may go too far in terms of his descriptions of his characters' irrational and perverse behaviour.
